March for Students/Rally for Respect Timeline

March Logistics:

March will begin at 16 May at 1030 at the NCAE Center at 700 S. Salisbury St. and proceed down the sidewalk of Fayetteville Street, across the Capitol Grounds (sidewalks only), down Bicentennial Plaza and then to the Legislative Buildings.

- On the sidewalks, the permit requires that a lane remain open for other pedestrians closer to the buildings and that participants are as close to the street as possible without being in the street.
- Given the expected size of the crowd, Raleigh Police may split groups of 100 to get across the streets.

General Assembly Logistics:

House and Senate sessions begin at 1200. Educators and community supporters will gather in the galleries, the third floor rotunda, the second floor rotunda, and other areas to greet lawmakers as they enter the chambers for session.

- General Assembly rules state that participants cannot be disruptive and cannot impede the movement of others in the building.
- There will be metal detectors upon entering. This will cut down the number of entry points significantly. Given the expected size of participants, there will be significant waiting and increase the chance that some will not be in the building by noon.

Rally Logistics:

The rally begins at 1530. Participants will start convening in Bicentennial Plaza Mall (in front of Legislative Building) beginning around

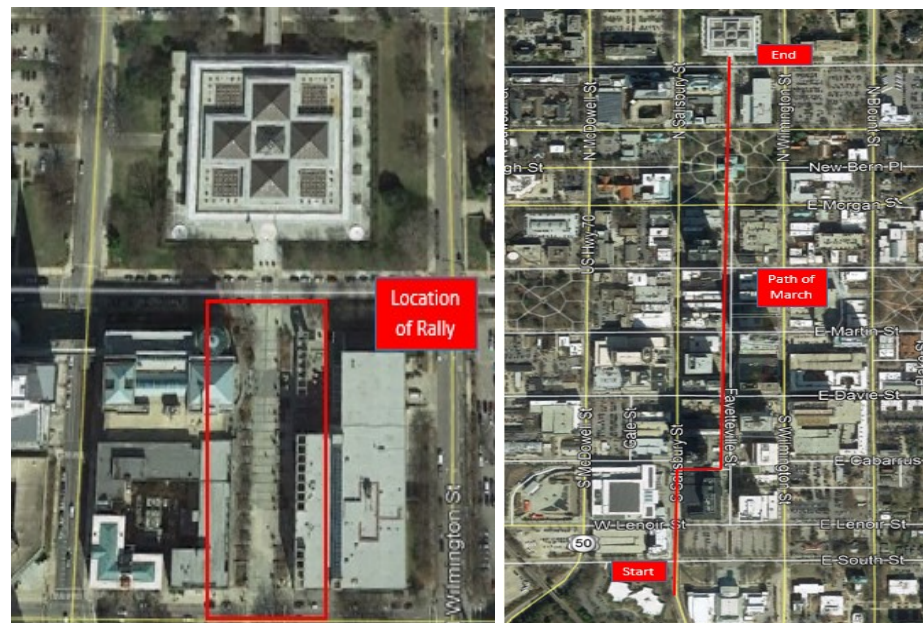

- 3 p.m. Expect a maximum crowd at 3:30 p.m.
- Participants will begin setting up staging around 1 p.m.

State Declarations: None

State Emergency Operations Center Activation: Level 5

North Carolina Association of Educators (NCAE) Platform

The purpose of March for Students, Rally for Respect is to hold elected leaders accountable for prioritizing corporate tax cuts, instead of classrooms. The ultimate goal is to elect more pro-public education leaders in North Carolina and to have long-term, sustainable victories so our state can return as a beacon for public schools.

North Carolinians from across the state are rallying in Raleigh TODAY to demand lawmakers act to provide children with the resources they need to learn and thrive. We hope you'll join us and thousands of teachers, advocates, parents, and students as they gather at the NCGA.

Learn more about the schedule of events on our partner NCAE's advocacy day website

<<https://default.salsalabs.org/Ta0942c97-a6f5-4805-a8dd-0dcd7f3ae157/82df15ba-8870-419b-9b05-30fead2a93e4>>.

This day, and the work leading up to it and after it, is about investing in schools our children deserve before our state cuts taxes again for corporations and wealthy taxpayers. Tax cuts have been prioritized over investments in education time and again, and another round of tax cuts is scheduled to go into effect on January 1, 2019, that will reduce state revenue by $900 million each year. This means we will have $3.5 billion less in revenue to invest in education and supports that improve educational outcomes. Tell lawmakers to stop the upcoming tax cuts!

Tell lawmakers to REJECT adding citizenship question to 2020 Census

The U.S. Department of Commerce recently announced its decision to include a citizenship question in the 2020 Census. This will significantly increase the cost of the Census, deter participation, and result in less accurate data as well as a loss of federal funds to North Carolina communities.

- The Census directly affects the allocation of federal resources to our state and provides decision-makers with the information they need to ensure government resources are directed strategically to our communities.
- Adding a citizenship question to the 2020 Census will deter participation by North Carolina's foreign-born population. Census representatives have reported widespread and unprecedented fear among respondents to other surveys, as households are reluctant to participate fully and provide accurate information.

- Adding the citizenship question is costly. If individuals do not initially respond to the questionnaire, the Bureau will follow-up by sending enumerators to their homes, and costs will increase exponentially.

How does your county measure up?

Our Budget & Tax Center recently released their absolutely crucial county-by-county Economic Snapshots, in a new, easy-to-use format. These quick guides to data are available for all 100 counties in North Carolina, including numbers on how many people are employed, living in poverty, have health insurance, and more.

Download your county's Economic Snapshot now at www.ncjustice.org/snapshots

<<https://default.salsalabs.org/Tffca82e5-8fd6-49a2-a54b-9798d3f35136/82df15ba-8870-419b-9b05-30fead2a93e4>>.

Our Economic Snapshots include indicators on employment, poverty and income, housing, health, education, and supports for working families. The snapshots are a way for everyday North Carolinians, advocates, service providers, and policymakers to track and evaluate important indicators of community well-being.

Teachers demand policy changes, cheer Cooper at unprecedented education rally
"Here for our kids" is the common refrain as 20,000+ marchers overrun downtown Raleigh

By Billy Ball <<https://default.salsalabs.org/T5825e3b7-b39b-4a0b-9d06-628f9b4b009b/82df15ba-8870-419b-9b05-30fead2a93e4>>

On Tuesday, Senate President Pro Tem Phil Berger—one of the state's most powerful Republican politicians—told North Carolina's teachers they'd soon be receiving their fifth consecutive round of raises.

Emily Rex heard Berger's promise. But the fifth-year, special education teacher—who lives in Berger's state Senate district in Guilford County—points out she's received raises in four of the last five years, not that she could much tell after soaring health premiums took their toll.

Rex said she completed her taxes in April. And over the last five years, her take-home earnings have inched up by about $1,000. "Any increase that we've had has been consumed by higher payroll deductions," she said.

But pay is just one of many reasons Rex came to Raleigh Wednesday. The state's overall spending on public schools is insufficient, she says, and it's yielded, in some cases, dismal working conditions and jam-packed classes.

Five years ago, Rex said she taught only about five students. Today, she said her special education classroom includes 12 students with varying needs and abilities, a tall task for any special education teacher.

"For me, it wasn't a choice to come here today," said Rex. "This is about my kids. If there's any way I can make things better for them, if I can make their educational experience better, this is what I have to do."

Rex joined an estimated 20,000 protesters, demanding sweeping North Carolina investments in classroom supplies, K-12 infrastructure, personnel, and school support staff like nurses, counselors, social workers and psychologists.

It was an unprecedented display in Raleigh, with a seemingly interminable procession of educators clad in red snaking from the N.C. Association of Educators' (NCAE) downtown Raleigh office on South Salisbury Street to the Legislative Building on Jones Street. # State Agency

State Board of Education Membership

The State Board of Education consists of the Lieutenant Governor, the Treasurer and eleven members appointed by the Governor for eight-year, overlapping terms, subject to confirmation by the General Assembly. Eight of the appointed members of the Board represent the eight education districts of the state. These districts are drawn by the General Assembly.

The Governor also appoints two high school students as advisors to the State Board of Education. A high school junior is appointed each year for a two-year term. The current and prior year's North Carolina Teachers of the Year serve as advisors. Other advisors include the North Carolina Principal of the Year, a local superintendent and a local school board member.
